Teacher Found Dead in Pulaski County High School

At 6:25 PM Friday night, Somerset Police responded to the Pulaski County High School to assist the Somerset Fire/EMS on an apparent medical call.

When officers and emergency personnel arrived, they found PCHS teacher Scott McAninch, age 33, dead in a northeast hallway of the school.

Family members were trying to contact McAninch throughout the day, but were unsuccessful. They asked for help from friends in locating McAninch. His car was discovered parked next to the high school late in the afternoon and a fellow teacher went inside to check on McAninch.

According to Richard New, Pulaski County Coronor, an autopsy was performed this morning in Frankfort and the result shows apparent natural causes.
